BRAD HOOD - C.I.A.U. PLAYER OF THE WEEK

Brad Hood, right wing on the Concordia Varsity Hockey Team has been selected as Canadian Interuniversity Athletic Union's "Player of the Week".

Former Toronto Marlboro player, Brad scored 24 goals and 26 assists his last year in Junior hockey. Now in his third season, after a slow start in his first year scoring 13 goals and 24 assists, he improved as a sophomore to 22 and 28 to help the team finish second in the country.

This year Brad has developed into a team leader, making single outstanding plays to lift the team. He has scored 16 goals and 14 assists in 23 games. Coach Arsenault feels Brad has the tools to play professional hockey if he desires after graduation. An outstanding student, Brad is currently in his final year of Commerce.

Brad is the son of Mr. & Mrs. Bruce Hood of 29 Dallington Drive, Willowdale, Ontario.

Brad is the first Concordia athlete to be named C.I.A.U. "Player of the Week" this 1983-84 athletic season.
